DID YOU KNOW?

- Most of the Old Testament was originally written in ancient Hebrew, which didn't have any vowels! Because Hebrew gradually fell into disuse among Jews in the Roman Empire, rabbis of the 5th and 6th centuries A.D. added a system of vowels to help preserve proper pronunciation when the Scriptures were read in the synagogue.
- The Old Testament was written over a period of approximately 1,000 years by a variety of men, including kings, prophets, judges, priests, and even farmers.
- Ancient scribes who copied the Old Testament by hand paid such meticulous attention to their work that very few variants were ever introduced. For example, comparison of a medieval copy of Isaiah with a copy dating to the 1st or 2nd century B.C. found among the Dead Sea Scrolls in 1947 shows that the two copies are almost identical, even though the Dead Sea Scroll copy was made over 1,000 years earlier.
